

Business Coaching

Organisations in all sectors face complexity and change at an ever increasing rate. Business coaching is an effective and focused way to help your executives meet the specific challenges they face. Coaching can be especially beneficial for:

- Leadership Transitions
- Developing Top Talent
- Resilience During Change
- Outplacement Coaching

"Coaching helped me to gain clarity and identify how I needed to change the way I interacted with directors to address issues without avoiding difficult matters."

Packages starting from £400

Leadership Transitions

Taking on a leadership role is one of the most challenging steps that we make in our career. Individuals experiencing this benefit from proactive support in thinking through how they form effective relationships at this level and what behavioural shifts they need to make to ensure that they are, and are seen to be, effective in this new role within the organisation.

Developing Top Talent

Your top talent is your greatest asset. Coaching can benefit your succession planning by helping to ensure that this talent is primed and ready to take on any new challenge that arises.

Offering executive coaching is a clear message to your most talented employees that you value them and see their future with you.

Resilience During Change

People leading change constantly deal with the complex needs of their teams. Coaching gives the executive the support that they need during this process to objectively assess the situation and make successful decisions.

Outplacement Coaching

Coaching can help ensure successful end to an employment relationship when an Executive's time with the organisation reaches its conclusion.

Helping the executive come to terms with the change and readying themselves to face life outside of the organisation through the exploration of interests and opportunities.
